Electricity Permitted to Run Through the Body for Forty Seconds.

HIS COURAGE BARELY LASTED.

He Died with the Word "Save" on His Trembling Lips.

SING SING, N. Y., June 12.-John Lewis Osmond, the first murderer to be executed by electricity for a double homicide, was shocked to death in the

This was the universal testimony of physicians and newspaper men, the majority of the latter having witnessed which the doomed man earnestly rethe condemned was strapped in the Father Creeden perceived this, and bending over the chair whispered a bending over the chair whispered a ast consoling exhortation in his ear.

Instantly the poor wretch's face lighted up.
"Save us! oh, Lord!" he murmured repeatedly.

At the third utterance there was puick, downward motion by Electrician

Davis at the switchboard. "Save"— gasped the lips of the man launched into eternity.

The exclamation was extinguished with the life.

Osmond's form stiffened against the straps. His right hand firmly clasped the arm of the chair. His left clinched the rosary given him by Father Creeden.

To the inexperienced it seemed like an age before the deadly current was turned off, although in reality it was just forty seconds. With a noise that sounded like a deep-drawn sigh, but which was merely the rushing or air from the lungs, the body ank back limp and lifeless. The wife-murderer and slayer of his friend was dead, Immediately the autopsy was begun It disclosed the fact that death was instantaneous, and that the victim's organs were in a normal condition.

While the scientific work was being conducted by Dr. Sheehan and Dr.-Lawyer O'Sullivan, an undertaker drove up to the prison with a coffin to take Os-mond's body to New York, where it will be buried to-morrow.

The witnesses at the execution were F. S. Decker, Speriff of Greene County Dr. F. A. Charles, of Catskill, N. Y.; Sumner Burnstein, Yonkers, N. Y.; Dr. William K. body and take it to New York for burial.

Osmond ordered a hearty breakfast this morning, and shortly after 8 o'clock Father Creeden arrived, to remain with Osmond to the end.

The electrical apparatus for the killing of Osmond was the same as that used in the execution of Carlyle W. Harris, the wife-poisoner.

State Electrician Davis was one of the first arrivals at the prison this morning, and he again tested the machinery of death.

OSMOND'S CRIME.

He Murdered His Wife and His Former Friend, Burobell.

The crime for which John Lewis Os mond was condemned to death was the phy Osmond, and his old friend, John C. jenious.

and married Mary Murphy in 1884.

Not a burn nor a scar was to be seen when the head and leg electrodes were removed.

On the chest a purplish color was visible, due to the rush of blood to the lungs, caused by the failure to unbutton the subject's shirt collar in the back. This caused the neck to swell abnormally, but occasioned no pain to the victim.

It was just 11.28 when Warden Durston escorted the witnesses downstairs to State Detective Jackson's office.

At 11.35 the march to the death chamber was begun. On their arrival in the death-house those witnesses who had never witnessed an execution were given an opportunity to examine the switchboard, and Electrician Davis illustrated the modus operandi by placing a set of incandescent immes in the

The Prisoner Taken Suddenly Ill and Has to Leave the Court.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 12 .over one-half of the spectators in court this morning were women, and the secweek of the Borden trial opens with the appearance of increased interest as the uncertainties of the case are unfolded. in the statute.

He did not understand there was any question that the inquest was made in violation of the laws of the Commonwealth. . The inference is that the inquest may be of a strictly private nature, or it may not, as the language is that any or all persons besides the one testifying may be excluded.

not been proceeded against?
The City Marshal stood at her shoulder authorized to make an arrest at any moment. We must assume this was done under the direction of the District-Attorney. It was not done at random. When the evidence was concluded she was not allowed to depart, but was placed under arrest. And when she went before the District Court she went on another warrant, and the law officers of the county know it. It was an evasion of the law, and may operate to deprive her of her rights.

That went on for three days. so far as the District Court or the District-Attorney were concerned, with no one to tell of her rights. If that is freedom, then God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. If that was voluntary testimony, then compulsory must hereafter be unknown.

THE INQUEST A PROSECUTOR'S TRICK. The inquest was not to discover whether a crime was committed or not, but its use and power were devoted to extorting from this defendant something which could be made useful.

The Government knew these murders and been committed by somebody, possibly by some one else. Was the District attorney to determine by whom? Yes, but not by dragging from her facts in such a manner.

She was not examined to find out whether she had done these murders, because they had already sworn she had done it. They put that warrant in their pocket and say, "If we get anything out of her, we'll put it away."

That was worse than burning a dress. Said Mr. Robinson: "Lizzie Borden stands on the Constitution of this commonwealth, and when the bill of rights says no person shall testify against him self, she stands on that. The shield of the State and the shield of the nation are her protection in this hour."

In this case, Miss Borden was in charge, she had been proceeded against and the warrant issued, and the City Marshal was "deircted," not "permitted," to arrest her.
